LPA Studio

Biourbanism for the sunny side of the planet.

LPA Studio is a multidisciplinary office specialised in regenerative urbanism optimised for the lifestyles of the territories with good weather. It works on planning and design methodologies that interpret built environments as living systems that exchange energy, information and matter with their environment. In other words: biourbanism for the sunny side of the planet.

LPA Studio operates in planning, urban design and landscape architecture. It also develops consulting work on urban sustainability as an auditing company with the BREEAM certification.

LPA Studio has a team of architects, engineers, environmentalists, designers and consultants organised into three divisions (LPA Strategy, LPA Design and LPA Constructing) that develop projects from the initial planning phase and public consultation to the final design and construction ones.

LPA Studio has accumulated great professional experience developing plans and projects in southern locations of high environmental and landscape value. Its professional skills include coastal fronts, tourist resorts, urban centres, sports facilities, parks and public spaces, fair & business complexes and pedestrian walkways. The work of the office has been awarded in national and international calls.

The non-profit Instituto20grados channels research and development activities. Its mission is to produce shared visions, concepts and prototypes of sustainable urbanisation adapted to the singularities and current challenges of the global south.

LPA Studio is based in the Canary Islands and has a network of partners in subtropical areas with whom it collaborates internationally.
